Year's End 2015

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We welcome you as you are now moving through the end of a pathway in time, the end of your year of 2015.

As you move to the close of your year you are moving to a place of endings in your life. As you move to these endings and quite possibly new beginnings, you now can look at what has transpired for you in your year of 2015.

It is important to be aware of these endings, closure in your life. Closure to aspects in your life, closure to relationships, closure of old habits, patterns and rituals. Quite possibly realizing your old habits, patterns and rituals and this being the final realization of them. Doing all of this so you can move through new doorways that will be opening for you in your year of 2016.

As you move to endings you can begin to see them and allow them energetically. This is a moment by moment, step by step process. Allow yourself to live in the moment of now.

As you come to the end of your year and quite possibly to aspects of the new, releasing aspects of the old, We ask you between now and the end of your current year of 2015 to make a list. Recapitulate your life to see what has transpired in your life in 2015. What have you learned? Where have you grown? What relationships have shifted and changed?

Most importantly We now ask you this:
How has the relationship with yourself changed in 2015?
Or
Has it?

If in fact the relationship with yourself shifted and changed, you will now be able to see how the relationship with others outside of you will begin to shift and change. You will also begin to create and form new relationships with others that will directly reflect the relationship you are now having with you. Or the new relationship you are having with you.

Do you honor and value yourself more now?
Do you honor and value your talents and gifts more now?
Have you moved into a deeper and greater awareness of your old behaviors?
Have you moved to the precipice to begin to release deeper aspects of the old so you can move through the new doorway that will be opening in your year of 2016.

It is important to recapitulate what has transpired for you in 2015.

What has come to a close for you?

What is opening for you?

Or

Are you still maintaining your old habits, patterns and rituals because this may be comfortable for you?

It is now about moving out of comfort zones if in fact you fully wish to grow and live the life you say you want. Look to see where you are comfortable in your life that may no longer be serving you, yet you are comfortable in it. Quite possibly old relationships.

In the time period between now and the end of your year of 2015, it is important to look at where you have grown to begin to make new choices and look for something more. To begin to have the life you say you want because you are aware and conscious of yourself. When you move closer to what you say you want you can begin to allow the feelings that come up.

If it is an intimate relationship you say you want, it is now important that you begin to have what you say you want and release yearning after it. All this is in congruence with the greatness and powerfulness of you.

Are you standing in the powerfulness of yourself?

Are you directing your will for life outside of you with a new excitation for life that is based upon a deeper realization of the true essence of who you are?

It is now important as you move to the precipice of the end of your year of 2015 to ask yourself the question:

Am I ready to have what I say I want?
