Assimilating Who You Are and Your Truth Out in the World

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as you move into brand new times as a three month cycle of awakening and clearing and cleansing has come to an end. You are now moving into a new three-month time period toward the end of your year of 2017 to begin to assimilate what you are learning as well as your truth. The clearing and cleansing will continue as you remain in a committed personal process.

It is now time to assimilate what you have learned throughout 2017 and in the last three months. The question We have for you is, What have you learned about yourself in the last three months that began on July 1st through the end of September? Old habits, patterns, rituals and belief systems have come to the fore for many and many have been triggered. What have you learned about you that you now can assimilate in your life?

Have you moved to a new powerfulness?
Have you moved to a new knowingness of self?
Have you moved to a place where you can see that you are important in the world?
Have you moved to a place where you know your truth is important and expressing it is important as well?

As you move through the last three months of your year it is now about moving out into the world and assimilating yourself in it and expressing your truth along with bringing your talents and gifts out in a bigger way.

It is important to understand that as many are being triggered by what is happening in your world, many are revealing who they are. So as you move into your last three months of 2017 it is about moving out into the world to reveal to others exactly who you are, where you are and why you are here. Many now are connecting to their purpose in the world and in their life.

What is transpiring in your world today is a continued upheaval and revelation of the truth of what is transpiring out there. As you look outside of you in the world it is time to move deeper within to your truth. And as we have asked you many times before, ask yourself, Does it resonate or doesn't it? It is now time to go beyond that question and find the answer for yourself. And ask, What is my truth in relationship to what is transpiring out in the world? And as you move into the last three months of 2017 it is about assimilating that truth out into the world. And now doing this in congregation with other like-minded individuals who share the same aspects of your truth and know that truth. Connecting with those who look out at what is transpiring in your world and ask the question, how can I affect my truth out in the world? How can I raise the resonance and vibration in the world? This is about creating a new collective consciousness. This collective conscious is now assimilating inside of you. It is a collective consciousness of truth, peace, community, harmony and equality.

So as you look outside of you in your world, you now can begin to focus on what truly is most important for you to bring your truth to. There is so much happening in your world that for many does not resonate. Yet there is much that does resonate. What does resonate are those who are moving in a collective consciousness of peace, community, harmony and equality. Now, as you move out into the world with your truth and begin to assimilate that truth and your power and greatness, you can choose to connect with these wonderful and most glorious souls. It is about looking at the greater good of the whole.

Look now at your soul family. Are there those within it who resonate with peace, community, harmony and equality? Or are there those who continue to the fight and fight for peace, community, harmony and equality?

Dear Ones, it is about ending the fight. What quite possibly will transpire for you in these last three months is ending the fight within yourself. Ending duality within you and seeing you for who you are and accepting with compassion who you truly are. As you begin to accept yourself with compassion as to who you truly are and see your powerfulness and greatness and the full expression of your truth, you can connect with those who are doing this and have a similar voice as you. In congregation with them you can begin to create a new collective consciousness. This collective consciousness has already been created within you.

Based upon what is transpiring outside of you in your world, many are revealing who they are. This is called transparency. What is transpiring out in your world today is becoming transparent to each and everyone of you who resonate at a higher vibration of peace, community, harmony and equality.

It is still important to see what feelings are coming up within you in relation to what is transpiring in your world. Is there still fear residing within you? Are you frightened? Are you walking a pathway with an innate fear inside? Might you be looking outside of you thinking that what is happening out there is more powerful than you? Might there be a feeling of powerlessness rising within you? It is most important to assimilate what is transpiring within you.

So We ask you,
How clear are you with who you are?
How clear are you with your truth?
How clear are you with your powerfulness?

How clear are you with your greatness?

How clear are you with peace, community, harmony and equality?

What has become clear to you as to who you are and what your truth is?

You can see this in relation to what is transpiring in your world. In many ways it is the reason why what is transpiring out in your world today is happening. So it can trigger all the aspects of you that need to be triggered and come to the fore. So you then can release all of it and what no longer serves your highest good. You can release the old belief systems and conditioning that says you are powerless. You can release the belief that you need to look to something or someone higher than you that is much more powerful than you who will lead you to the promise land. We have spoken to you about this many times before.

It is most important to see now where quite possibly your nervous system is triggered and what feelings are coming up within you in relation to your current events. Are you fighting what is transpiring outside of you? Are you in opposition to it? Can you allow it to trigger you and with acceptance and compassion allow yourself to have all the feelings that rise to the surface? And stay in a place of peace, love, community, harmony and equality with yourself. The only way you can move into congruence with others is to be in congruence with yourself. You do this by accepting with compassion where you are.

As We have said time and time again, it is not about getting rid of anything, the old habits, patterns and rituals or fixing yourself. It is about seeing them for what they are and making another choice. What is your choice? Is your choice to look outside of you at what is transpiring in the world and oppose everything?

You have come to a point as you move into your month of October to remind yourself as to where you are. We are reminding you by asking you these questions. Are you in opposition and protesting what is happening outside of you in the world? Or can you look at it, allow your feelings to rise and know that much of it no longer resonates for you.

The question many of you may have now is, What to do next?

It is time to allow the energies to assimilate within you. What is being created is new and you are at the fore. It is a new world of community, harmony and equality. See what is transpiring outside of and know, the old is being revealed and it is coming to the fore to be released.

As you move into your month of October and begin the last three months of your year of 2017, a great amount of truth will be revealed. Each and every wonderful and most glorious soul is beginning to reveal who they are in relation to what they were taught and conditioned with. The illusions of the old and the past are being revealed. Your illusions have been revealed.

What are the illusions within you that have been revealed? Quite possibly the illusion that you are powerless, you are not great, you cannot be loved for who you are and will not be loved if you speak and express your truth? Might it be the illusion that you are powerless when it comes to shifting and altering the resonance and vibration of the collective consciousness?
