

Archangel Michael Speaks
Outlook 2018
Channeled by Jeff Fasano

A Year of Being in the Full Expression of You

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael, this is Michael and We welcome you as you are now moving into the depth of yourself. You are opening up to a grandness of self, a greatness of self and an expression of self. You are now transitioning from your year of 2017 and transmuting it. Releasing the old of 2017 and moving into a brand new year of 2018, a year of being in the full self-expression of self and being you.

As you move into your month of January 2018 many are looking back into 2017 and wondering what they may need to release as they move into the new year. Your month of December 2017 was a month of transition, discovering what no longer resonates and works for you. Perhaps you took a look at the old manual that you used to map, move through and live your life by. As you now enter your month of January it is time to take out that manual. Perhaps this was the manual you used to struggle to survive life, it was a manual of joylessness?

You began a transition period in December of 2017 and as you move through the door opening into 2018 from 2017 this will continue through your month of January. You have walked through a doorway from endings to new beginnings and We suggest now to take out that old manual and look at it. Look at your old habits, patterns and rituals and behaviors. Ask yourself one question; have they served me? There are aspects of the old manual that have served you and most likely those that have never served you.

Many moved to a new level of consciousness in 2017. It is time to see where you are at this new level of consciousness. So We ask you to take out that old manual to see what resonates and what no longer does. Many will take that manual and throw it away. It is most important to see what no longer works for you in your life's plan since you moved to a new level of consciousness, to begin to shift and change your life forever.

As you now have moved into January 2018, it is important to continue the transition from the old to the new. Utilize this month to plan what is most important for you for the new year ahead. December 2017 through January 2018 is a transition period from the doing in life to being in life.

Your year of 2018 is about being who you are in the full expression of who you are. In 2017 you connected to the depth of your truth so We ask you to define your truth. Define the truth that fully reflects you and now begin to express that truth in the beingness of you.

It is time to release the need to do. And in doing so, release moving out in the world and expending an inordinate amount of energy. It is time in 2018 to conserve your energy so you can entrain your energy to the new you and hold a space for the new you. It is about moving from doing to being to doing.

You are now beginning to entrain your energy to the depth and breadth of your truth and who you fully are, and realizing your meaning, value and purpose and the importance of you and your talents and gifts. It is now time to bring you, your talents and gifts and your modalities and endeavors to the world, perhaps to a greater audience.

It is time to see the importance of you.

In January it is important to fully understand in the depth of your heart space your importance and the importance of your talents and gifts, modalities and endeavors. Many may still be looking at what others are doing and comparing what they are doing to what you are doing, your talents and gifts, modalities and endeavors. It is most important to continue to grow by branching out and seeing what others are doing and receiving it. Yet, it is now time to see that what you are doing with your talents and gifts, your endeavors and modalities are important to bring out in the world now. It is so because you are transitioning in 2018 into a new consciousness, of community, harmony, equality, peace and love. As your new year moves along you will see this transpire. You will see as well much of the old falling away in your world.

As your year progresses from January to February, it is important to begin to live in the moment of the present, of now, of what is. At this moment in time move through your life day by day, fully immersing yourself in the moment of the present. It is important now to begin to build the consciousness of confidence within you. This is the consciousness that you are great, you are powerful, and you have something to say. As you move through your year We will be offering exercises and messages that will allow you to entrain yourself to a new energetic consciousness of greatness, powerfulness and importance.

It is time now to curtail looking outside of you at other modalities and what others are doing. Keep an eye on what they are doing but release comparing your modalities, endeavors and yourself to them. It is time as well to move into a balance of giving and receiving. See your importance in life and your importance to others.

So We now move to speak about you and the depth and breadth and powerfulness of who you are as an individuated soul who is inhabiting your third dimensional realm and why you are shifting from doing to being.

Many are creating an energetic slur or blur outside of themselves that poses as a mask of doing. If in fact I do, I can avoid me. If I do others will love me. If I continue to do outside of me with the old attachments of what doing is, I will be loved. It is now time to move into the full beingness of who you are. On a monthly basis We will come to you to guide and support you to move into the full beingness of you and transition from doing to being to doing.

What We mean by moving from doing to being to doing is this. As you look at the old behavior of doing and why you are doing and expending an inordinate amount of energy in doing outside of you, you see that you lose the beingness of you. By entraining energetically the teachings and the tools you have been given and thus entraining to a new sense of self, you begin to create the foundation of being you. It is from this foundation that you begin to love, honor and value you. From this new foundation, you then can entertain connecting with others outside of you in balance of giving and receiving. From this place you can then decipher and choose what you want to do.

It is about releasing the old attachments to doing, then entraining yourself to the new behavior of being. Then through the individuated, healing, conscious adult, begin to choose what is most important for you to do out in the world.

It is also most important as you move through your year of 2018 to move to a more spiritual sense of self. As you look at what is transpiring in the world outside of you, look to see if there is equilibrium energetically. As you look outside of you at the low, dense vibration in the macrocosm of your world, are you lending an inordinate amount of energy to that. Can you now shift in the beingness of who you are to a full multi-dimensional way of living? Thus, taking into account, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th dimensional energies and incorporate this into the beingness of you. In many ways allowing this to be your guide as opposed to looking outside of you in the world and this being you guide. We alluded to this in 2017 asking you to look outside of you at the world to see if you are reacting or responding in accordance with this.

The year of 2018 is about you moving to a new powerfulness of who you are. By incorporating multi-dimensional energies and moving into your heart space to be who you are, you can direct your will for life outside of you at a high vibrational energy. This will supersede the low, dense vibrational energy of the macrocosm.

This brings us to relationships.

You can look at relationships that might be of a low, dense vibration. Do you have associations with others that are at a low, dense vibration? Look at these relationships and ask:

Do they serve my highest good?

Are they in congruence me energetically and consciously?

We are asking you to raise your game. Raise your vibration to who you truly are and move into the powerfulness and greatness of you. It is all important to see and know you. It is all important now to take a look at relationships and associations and ask: Are they in congruence with my level of resonance and vibration, my truth, my knowingness of who I am and what I say I want?

We have laid the groundwork for you in 2017 by asking you to look outside of you and ask what resonates and what no longer does?

To also ask, am I in a consciousness of peace, community, harmony, equality?

If you moved through this process in 2017, you have landed exactly where you are now at the beginning of January in 2018.

At your level of consciousness and awareness of self, where are you right now?

Have you moved to a more dynamic sense of beingness of you?

Is what is transpiring in the macrocosm of the world outside of you still affecting you as it did at the beginning of 2017?

You have laid the groundwork and understanding of peace, community, harmony, equality and all inclusiveness. You have shifted your level of resonance and vibration by observing what is transpiring outside of you in the world and observing what is transpiring in relationships that no longer resonate. You now can release the attachments to all of this.

As you move through your month of January, take a look at your old attachments to the world outside of you and to relationships and associations with others. See if this is in your old manual. Quite possibly you may just throw out the old manual and begin to write a new one. Energetically, spiritually, and multi-dimensionally throughout your year of 2018 a new manual will be written. If you open your heart space you can begin to write this new manual in the microcosm of your life.

What is transpiring multi-dimensionally from the fifth dimension to the tenth is a new manual is being written for your earthly plain. It is a new manual of being. It will move through for the next 2000 years. It is a new manual that will guide those who move deeper within in a personal process to love, honor and value themselves. It is a new manual to live your life by. It is a new manual that many in the macrocosm who hold the old world of form in place may open to see that the old no longer works.

Many will fight to the death to keep the old in place. Throughout your year of 2018 you will see that fight begin to wane and die. Non transparency and non authenticity will no longer be. You will begin to see greater transparency, authenticity and knowledge about what is transpiring in the world outside of you. You will see the rise and fall of those who have chosen the old way and old dogmatic structures. You will see the rise and fall of dogma.

As you move into a greater depth of self, you will take the manual out, see your old dogmas and then see them die. The old manual of life in the old world of form is beginning to close chapter by chapter. From the first 3 months through the first half of your year you will see this happening and see how it will threaten those who are holding the old dogma in place. You will uprisings in your world surrounding this.

If you have chosen a pathway of self mastery it is important to congregate to keep the issue in front of everyone. It is not time to fall back to sleep, this will transpire for some. For those who have chosen to move into a new collective consciousness of peace, community, harmony, equality, intimacy and all inclusiveness it is time for to rise up to keep the issues in front of others.

This is not a time to fall asleep.

This is not a time to retreat.

This is not a time to move back and utilize the old manual for your life.

It is time to rewrite the manual.

It is time to rewrite consciousness.

It is time to rewrite the history and beingness of you.

It is time to rise up and stand in your greatness and powerfulness so the effervescent white light in the depth and breadth of your soul space can shine

It is time to take charge of your life.

Open to your soul's divine plan and be who you are.
