

Archangel Michael Speaks

Channeled by Jeff Fasano

The World 2020

Trust Yourself and Speak Your Truth

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as you move into a deeper aspect of your life and open up to the truth of your beingness. It is most important now to continue to speak your truth and express it out into the world in whatever way you choose. Truth being peace, community, harmony, equality, love, intimacy and togetherness. It is most important as you continue to move on the pathway of self mastery to move deeper within to fully embody your truth and your beingness because this will shift and change the resonance and vibration in the world.

As you move deeper within to shift your truth and your beingness and shift the molecular structure of your physical beingness and open to the grandness and greatness of self you will when you look directly into your own eyes, know exactly who you are. Know that you emanate from peace, love, community, harmony and equality and this is your truth.

It is most important to continue on a regular basis, moment by moment, day by day, week by week, month by month to express your truth to the world.

As you move into your month of July, what is transpiring in your world is heating up, it is beginning to escalate, the illusion of your world is escalating. Those who perpetrate this illusion are continuing to do so. As this happens, it is most important to look out into the world and ask, does this resonate with my truth or doesn't it? Does this resonate and vibrate with the fiber of my being?

We ask you at this time to move into a place of Self Trust. Moving from looking outside of you through trial and error and move into the depth of your heart space into resonant causation. Moving into this place allows you to begin to trust yourself based upon your resonance and vibration. You can look out into the world, see what is transpiring in it and ask, what resonates and what doesn't? This is an important process for you to take. Step deeper within and move out of the mental body and into your heart space to pay attention to yourself. Honor yourself, value yourself, pay attention to yourself. Pay attention to the inner molecular structure of the being of you that quite possibly is saying, "no this doesn't resonate for me, but this does." Begin to pay attention to this.

Release the cacophony that is happening all around you in the third dimensional realm and hone in on what resonates for you and see what doesn't.

It is time on your pathway of self mastery to take another deep step within to your heart space. Quite possibly you are ruminating in your mental body and doing so is triggering old wounding, programming and conditioning. You may be moving into a place of fear of what is transpiring in the world. You may look outside of you and ask, Where will I be safe and secure if what is transpiring in the world continues?

The most important gift you can give to you is to move within your heart space and begin a process of trusting yourself. Trusting the resonance and vibration as you are moving into a greater truth of your beingness and who you are.

Another question you can ask yourself at this moment, at this stage on the path to self mastery is, Who Am I? Who Am I Here To Be? Not so much what you are here to do, but who are you here to be? Am I here to be a proponent of Love? Are you here to add through your talents and gifts, as an ingredient, to the world with love?

Look to see where you are fighting against what is transpiring in the world.
Look to see where you are fighting against those with whom you are in relationship.

Look to see where you are opposing what is transpiring in the world.
Look to see where you are opposing those with whom you are having a relationship.

Look to see where you are opposing you within you.

Are you trusting your inner knowingness? Or do you know what your inner knowingness is?

We have spoken with you about this inner knowingness within your heart space. This knowingness is directly related to your soul's divine plan. You are living in this third dimensional realm but by the miraculous-ness of freedom of choice, you make choices. You make choices to stay in the mental body. Ruminating in the conditioning and programming and disregard the truth in the depth and breadth of your heart space.

It is now time to develop tools that will make you aware and conscious when you are in your mental body as opposed to being in your heart. This tool is resonance. Are you raising your awareness and consciousness to your own behaviors? If you allow yourself to raise your awareness to your own behaviors, patterns, habits and rituals, you will raise in an infinite measure, your awareness and consciousness to yourself. Look to see where you continue to shame and judge yourself.

It is most important now to move within to the depth and breadth of your heart space, of your soul space, and begin to honor and value the depth of your truth and your knowingness. Honor and value your talents and gifts that you utilize to bring "good" to the world. What are you bringing to the world that is raising its resonance and vibration? What are you for? Are you for love, peace, community, equality, togetherness and intimacy? If this is what you are for, look inside to the depth and breadth of your heart space and ask, Am I being this?

You are human and you move on a path of growing and learning and making mistakes along the way.

It is time to see if the truth of your beingness is truth, peace, community, harmony and equality.