A Message for 2021

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as you are moving now into a new aspect of your earthly plain and your life on the earthly plain in your year of 2021. It is a new year, a year of peace, community, harmony and equality not so much outside of you but within.

What is most important as you move into your year of 2021 is to look into the mirror. Your year of 2021 is about looking into the mirror and taking responsibility for yourself and taking it to a new and deeper level within the depth and breadth of you. By doing so, moving into the powerfulness of self.

So We ask each and every one of you, How deeply entrenched are you in the depth and breadth of your heart space, your soul space where you are now taking full responsibility for your self? And moving into a powerfulness of peace, community, harmony, equality, intimacy and oneness within you so you can emanate your radiant, vibrant light out onto the world and be that.

Your year of 2021 is a year of moving from doing to being who you are. Emanating that bright light outside of your self as well as the powerfulness of you. Emanating peace, community, harmony, equality outside of you and standing in the beacon of white light around you being who you are. Knowing that you are loved for being who you are. Letting go of the old wounding of trying to prove your self, doing to prove your self, saying, "This is what I am doing can you see it? And now do you love me?"

Your year of 2021 is a year a moving fully into being who you are. Allowing the radiant white light from the depth and breadth of your heart space to shine out on the world and then shift the consciousness of the world. It is not so much about shifting the consciousness en masse, it is about shifting the consciousness of an other. That wonderful and most glorious soul who is still looking outside of them looking for the deified, mythical leader to lead them to the promise land. In reality still looking for mom and dad.

As you have now raised your awareness and consciousness to the wounds of the child inside of you and nurturing those wounds, you can now see this in an other. See the wounding in an other outside of you. See that they are allowing their wounded child to lead them and thus looking outside of themselves to someone or something to lead them in life. When you break it all down, it is still the wounded child looking for mom and dad to lead them, take care of them, to love, honor and value them. The wounded child looking outside of themselves to know that someone else will take care of them and thus they will be alive in life.

This is survival consciousness. The wounded child looking outside of themselves looking for someone to take care of them. It is now time to see this in others. Look to see where that may still exist within you as you have raised your awareness and consciousness to it. And you can understand it and nurture it. Thus, you have re-parented that child, you have become the parent of that child and thus you are taking responsibility for your self.

It is also most important to see how this wounding has led you to isolating and separating your self from others, perhaps looking at others in a divisive way. It is now time to stand in the depth and breadth of the powerfulness of your self as you move into your year of 2021 and be that beacon of white light, be who you are, be the one who has raised his or her consciousness and awareness of self to a greater degree where you can nurture your self and move into a collective consciousness of your choice and creating a new soul family of your choice. We utilize the word choice because the adult knows choice, the wounded child knows no choice. The wounded child thinks they have no choice.

So what is your choice as you move into your year of 2021?

Do you still look outside in the world in a divisive fashion looking at either / or, right or wrong, good or bad?

Or are you looking at the beacon of white light that shines from the depth and breadth of your heart space and move out into the world in the full beingness of you?

Your year of 2021 is a year of releasing the doing, the doing to prove to others who you are. Moving to a place of fully being who you are where you then will do, utilizing your talents and gifts that you honor and value. By doing this, utilizing your talents and gifts, there is more purpose to your doing. So the question We have for you is, What is the purpose of your doing?

It is now time to carve a pathway of beingness. Carve a pathway of love, community, harmony and equality and see where this exists in your life right now. Look at your life right now to see where there is community, harmony, equality, love, intimacy, passion, with other like-minded individuals. Those who in their heart space hold that space for you and you hold that space for them.

Quite possibly is it time to release your attachments to the third dimensional realm?

Your year of 2021 will be a year where it will be a slow process of fully releasing your attachments to the third dimensional realm. So it is important for you to look at those attachments. It is not about detaching because you are in this third dimensional realm based upon the choices you have made to incarnate into it in the human form in this period or cycle of your soul's divine plan.

It is important to see your attachments to the third dimensional realm in 2021. And to release those attachments to the world and those outside of you. And move into a place of the multi-dimensional being that you are where you can look at what is transpiring in the world outside of you and look at the attachments to it. Meaning, do you still look outside of you to be loved? Do you look outside of you to prove to others that you are loveable? Do you look outside of you for others to approve of you and then you are loved? Do you still look outside of you in the third dimensional realm thinking that a deified, mythical leader is going to lead you to the promised land? Do you still look outside of you for safety and security? Do you look to those outside of you and think they will complete you in your life?

The reason why We used the word choice earlier, is because you now have a choice to love those who love you. You now have a choice that brings an other into your life in intimacy that enhances your life and you enhance theirs. It is not about being completed by an other and then there is love, this is an attachment.

So it is important as you move through your year of 2021 to look at your attachments then see what transpires as you release them.

So We say to you as We come to you at this wonderful and most glorious time, it is about moving into the powerfulness of you and beingness of you. You the adult that can now differentiate between the wounds of the child and how that child led you through life and still quite possibly does. Yet now, differentiate the adult you that has full powerfulness and the nurturing ability with compassion and acceptance for others and your self.

It is also a time to move into a greater level of compassion and assert that compassion out into the world. Assert acceptance out into the world. Accepting all that is transpiring in the world as it so is in the divine plan of the universe, in the soul's process on your earthly plain.

Move into the multi-dimensional beingness of you.

As you move through your year of 2021 it is a constant movement into the multi-dimensional of each and every one of you.

Can I now move into the depth and breadth of my soul space and look at what is transpiring in the world in that fashion?

Detaching your self from your old way of being and doing and releasing all of the old that no longer serves you.

January

As you move into your month of January you are still making the transition from 2020 to 2021. It is not as if something ends and something else begins. It begins and ends at the same time. Life ebbs and flows, you will move into expansions and contractions. It is important now as you move into your month of January of 2021 to see what still needs to be released and continue this process throughout the month. You will continue this process through the first six months of 2021. It is a process of releasing that which no longer serves you, who no longer serves your highest good and the relationships that no longer serve your highest good. But it is important to recognize and define what your highest good is. Your highest good will define for you the new collective consciousness. So ask your self, What is your highest good? Define it. Then see who champions your highest good as you champion an other's.

Your first six months of 2021 is a period of moving into the balance of giving and receiving in life. So you can move into a new collective consciousness of peace, community, harmony and equality. Is there a balance of giving and in your soul family? Is there a balance of giving and receiving in relationships you are having with others?

It is most important to understand as We reiterate all of this for you, it is simply another step in the depth and breadth of your soul's divine plan in the full beingness of who you are.
