Awakenings to Closure

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We welcome you as you are now moving into a most exquisite time of your life. You are looking at yourself from the high vibrational level that you are.

Many now are moving through cycles. Moving from the shadow to the light and the light through the shadow all at once. It is as if the shadow moments overlap with the periods of lightness. You are moving in symbiosis so you can move to a greater level of resonance and vibration within you.

Look now at what is most important to you in relation to your spiritual world and the third dimensional realm. There is a dichotomy within the spiritual structure and the structure of the third dimension. Many are negotiating their pathway through the earthly plain as they move to the end of your year of 2018 into 2019, a year of new beginnings.

What is transpiring now are endings. Many are seeing endings in their life. Deep wounding and old habits, patterns and rituals are surfacing. Aspects having to with loving, honoring and valuing you are also surfacing.

As you move into your month of December, endings are beginning. These are endings of old habits, patterns, rituals and behaviors that hold you in the old. Many are seeing this. They are seeing how they are perpetrating old habits, patterns and rituals that have kept them in the old, yet not realizing it right now.

What is transpiring as you begin your month of December are awakenings. They are awakenings that will move you to endings. You might find yourself creating a situation in your life that is old. The situation is created by choices and behaviors in the subconscious and brings up the old. Perhaps you find yourself saying; When will I ever get the message? When will I ever learn the lesson? When will I finally shift and change that pattern, habit, ritual and behavior? You may be seeing where you are not honoring, valuing and loving you.

The awakenings you will experience at the beginning of December are awakenings to old habits, patterns and rituals. To where you are not honoring and valuing you, where you are not fully being who you are, where you are not fully expressing the truth of who you are.

This is all about awakening to the full powerfulness of you as a spiritual being living in the third dimensional realm and having this experience.

It is now time to dictate your experience by standing in your power and dictating to the world the experience you choose to have. Doing this through the full beingness of who you are. In order to move to this place that will begin in your first month of 2019, your month of December is about awakening to old habits patterns and rituals that you might feel you have solved and transcended. If in fact you are on the path moving deeper within the depth and breadth of yourself to fully live in your heart space, these awakenings must happen. And they are happening to many.

What transpires along with the awakening is a full reckoning as you recognize the old habit, pattern and ritual. As you awaken to the jolt to the nervous system of the old habit, pattern, ritual and behavior that produces the same old result and situation in your life, it is now time that you get these messages. It is now time that you fully open your heart space and receive the awakening. If you do, you then can move to the end of it at the end of your year of 2018. By doing this you will understand that when a situation arises, you will move to a greater depth of consciousness and awareness of what transpires within you when you are presented with a situation in the world outside of you. You then can respond to it through a greater depth of loving, honoring and valuing you, knowing who you are and expressing who you are through this. Many are being challenged with this at this time.

At the beginning of December you will be receiving these awakenings and you may not like them because deep-rooted feelings will come up. It will be a test to utilize your tools and it may be important to reach out to others to process what is transpiring within you. As you move through what will transpire in the awakening, you will move to endings and closure.

Many in December will be faced with closure. Closure of old relationships. Closure of old aspects of yourself as you shift the relationship you are having with you by moving to a greater depth of loving, honoring and valuing you and being and knowing who you are. Along with this you will move to knowing the full structure and capacity of who you are and the purpose and value of your talents and gifts. You will see why others are seeking your talents and gifts, and need them.

Yet, in order to move to this place that will begin in your new year of 2019, a full burgeoning of you out into the world, this month of December is crucial as you take a deeper step within. In doing so you can move into your year of 2019 with the knowledge of what the old habits, patterns and rituals produce in your life.

It is most important to be aware of these awakenings. Be aware of them on a cellular level, on a physical, mental and emotional level. These awakenings are happening for each and every one of you. Many are saying; When will I get the message and entrain myself to my greatness and powerfulness? These awakenings are transpiring in December and it is crucial that you move into the depth and breadth of your heart space to love, honor and value you more deeply.

As you move through your month of December you will move to closures. Perhaps closing old relationships that no longer serve you. Quite possibly you will be opening new relationships that do serve you and revisiting old relationships that will rekindle based upon the new relationship you are having with you.

So We come to at this wonderful and most glorious time, to allow you to have your process to awaken to a greater depth of you and see how these awakenings will illuminate the old habits, patterns, rituals and behaviors, and see as well how they produce the same results over and over and over again.
