

Archangel Michael Speaks

Channeled by Jeff Fasano

A Revolution of Truth

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as your world is experiencing a cataclysmic revolution of the norm and what you determine the norm to be. In your world today there is a great uprising that is moving to a deeper level of truth in the individuals that are purporting to transpond that truth to the masses. What is transpiring is an uprising of truth and the realization of what is happening in the world and seeing the illusion in it.

What is transpiring in the masses and what you call humanity is an uprising, a revolution with regard to truth. Many are moving deeper within their heart space to enforce their truth, the truth for the good of the whole, of community, harmony, equality, love and peace. To enforce this truth about those who create the illusion in the world. What is transpiring for many is a shift in that consciousness. It is about moving into a higher resonance and vibration of a soul consciousness, a collective consciousness. That consciousness is about what is good for the whole, good for the community, and the masses. This is the truth and what is transpiring in your world today and you are just at the beginning of it.

In your month of February it was a time to begin detaching yourself from the third dimensional realm. What We mean by this is detaching yourself from the illusion of the third dimensional realm and beginning this by looking at your attachments to the world outside of you.

When you look in the macrocosm of what is happening in the world it is a revolution of sorts. It is a revolution of truth, equality, harmony, and peace. Then when you look at what is transpiring within you, it is a revolution when releasing your attachments to the illusion outside of you. In many ways your society is growing up into adulthood. Releasing the need for mom and dad to lead the way and healing the wounds of the inner child. Many now are realizing that the innate truth is peace, community, harmony and equality.

You are now moving through the beginning stages of a revolution. What We mean by revolution is not that you are against what is transpiring in the world, you are realizing in the depth of your heart space what your truth is. And when seeing this truth of peace, community, harmony and love, you are realizing that what is transpiring in the world does not resonate with that truth. You are realizing that your truth of peace, community, harmony, equality and love, is far greater than the illusion of the third dimensional realm. The illusion of the third dimensional realm is to suppress the truth, it is the suppression of peace, community, harmony, equality, and love. Now there is a rising that is coming up within individuals where what is transpiring in the world is no longer resonating and vibrating with them and it is important to do something about it.

It is not about protesting against what is transpiring in the world because that will sustain and maintain duality. It is about speaking your truth. What are you for? Not what you are against.

It is about looking at what is transpiring in the world outside of you, at your governmental, political, and corporate systems and ask yourself, Does it resonate or doesn't it? Many now are taking what is transpiring in the world seriously. During your global pause many are moving within to the depth of their heart space and seeing the old world of form continuing day by day, moment by moment. Many are now realizing that this is no longer acceptable because it no longer resonates with their truth.

In the microcosm, your personal life, simply ask yourself, What is my truth? What is the truth of my being?

So what is transpiring in the world outside of you is a movement to the depth of transparency and authenticity. You are seeing the lowest and most dense vibration of aspects of the illusion outside of you revealing itself. Within this there are individuals in your life who are revealing who they truly are. As you observe what is transpiring, We ask you, How does this make you feel? Does it resonate and vibrate with you? Many now are taking this seriously and looking at how they can act to shift the resonance and vibration. Not change what is transpiring in the world but shift the resonance and vibration of the collective conscious.

It is time to see what is important to you. Perhaps seeing that the most important aspect is a collective consciousness of peace, community, harmony, equality and togetherness. We are one. I am one. We are all. I am all. We are one.

It is now about looking at this and asking, What is my part in the equation of this. What is important for me to be. Who is it important for me to be? It is about moving into the beingness of your truth and emanating the essence of your truth. Not your beliefs, not what you were conditioned to believe. There is a difference in beliefs and truth. Your truth is peace, community, harmony and equality. This is the truth within you when you incarnated into the third dimensional realm. You have learned everything else. You have learned duality and hate through your wounding and your models. It is time to see your models and ask yourself does that resonate and vibrate with me?

What is my resonance and vibration? Am I still opposing what is transpiring in the world? Or am I moving into the powerfulness of my being? Are you seeing yourself as powerful and great and that your voice, and your expression matters? So you can bring out to the world your truth with love, peace, community, harmony and equality and join together in a collective consciousness of this. Bringing this message to the world to shift the level of resonance and vibration of it.

By opposing what is transpiring outside of you, whomever you are in relationship with, you are just feeding it energy. This is the way of the old world of form. There are many who fight to the death to keep the old world of form in place. Yet, what is transpiring and shifting right now with those who are doing this is they are becoming frightened. They are seeing that what is in the masses is love, peace, community, harmony and equality. They are seeing this and they are being threatened. When they are threatened they hold on for dear life.

When the old is threatened within you in the microcosm, you hold on for dear life to keep the old in place because that is your comfort zone. It is what you know. The unknown is out there. There are many in the illusion of the third dimensional realm in your political systems, governmental systems, corporate systems that are holding on for dear life. Fighting to hold on in opposition to what is transpiring in the world where the resonance and vibration is raising.

So We ask you, in the microcosm of your life and who you are in the depth of your heart, where are you opposing what is transpiring in the world? In the macrocosm of the world and the microcosm of your personal life where are you opposing? Are you doing this or moving together in community, harmony and equality to express the depth of your truth at a high vibrational level that will shift the collective consciousness? This is what is happening now in what you may call a revolution, a revolution of truth. It is a revolution to break down the walls of the illusion in the third dimensional realm. This is what is transpiring.

It is seeing about how you are doing this. Are you doing it by opposing? Are you against? Are you fighting?

As you maintain the fight within you, the fight outside of you will perpetuate.

It is about moving into the beingness of your truth, the peace of who you are and know the full expression of that truth is needed in the world. You are needed in the world outside of you. Look at your talents, gifts and abilities, how can you utilize this to express the truth of your being in the world? It is now time for you to see your greatness, the importance and the powerfulness of the expression of your truth.

What We ask you to do is remain consistent. Do not give up. Remain consistent in speaking your truth. Your truth should not die. And the expression of it should not die. Remain consistent in bringing the truth to the world. Remain consistent in speaking your truth. Do not tire of speaking your truth. Do not tire of expressing your truth. Expressing your truth is the expression of your beingness of you. Expressing your truth is what you always wanted and desired to do. Quite possibly you have been repressing and suppressing it based upon your condition and wounding. It is time to rise up if you so choose, and remain consistent in speaking your truth. As the consistency builds on a moment by moment, day by day, week by week, month by month basis in your personal process and expressing your truth to the world you will see the shift and change that has always has been your intention.

