

Archangel Michael Speaks

Channeled by Jeff Fasano

A Message for May 2025

A Time to Blossom

From the Archangelic Realm of Michael this is Michael and We come to you as you are now moving into your month of May. A month to blossom into the new you and the beingness of you. A month to blossom into the individuated adult that you are. In many ways leaving behind the old wounding and trauma and blossom into the adult radiating the radiant white light from within the soul space out onto the world. To be you where you are raising your resonance and vibration to a new level. Many have risen within themselves to a new level of resonance and vibration into the individuality and uniqueness of self. And it is up to you, if in fact you choose to look into the mirror, to recognize that. Recognize where you are resonating and vibrating. Recognize with whom you are resonating and vibrating and through discernment moving into the congregation of the new soul family. Where the uniqueness of the individual, the individuality of the individual is celebrated. Thus, exiting the heard consciousness mentality which is transpiring in the third dimensional realm. It always has been and in many ways always will be. Which is why you have chosen the inner journey. The inner journey to move through the trauma, the wounding, and into the recognition of self. The true recognition of self so you can look outside of yourself in the third dimensional realm into the low, dense vibrational aspects of it and see, based upon where you are resonating and vibrating what resonates and what doesn't for you.

Now as you move into your month of May, exiting your month of April, it is now to blossom into that. Now blossoming into the new sense of self. New valuing of self. Honoring and loving the self and the uniqueness of self. As We said to you in your month of April, it is not about seeing you as different from others. It is about looking into the mirror and seeing that you are simply the other you are looking at. It is about looking at your uniqueness so you can now move into the new soul family, create the new soul family with those who see their uniqueness and their individuality but the equality and all-inclusiveness of the self as well.

It is not about seeing that you are different from others, you are better than others, you know more than others. It is about the equality of self. The equality that you have with another. Based on resonance and vibration, based on where you are in your soul plan on your soul path, you are now discerning and choosing as the adult those with whom it is important for you to be in relationship with.

Note: Choose as the adult.

As you move through the process of where the wounded child was dictating your life or running your life, in many ways you did not have a choice. Based upon your wounding the choices you made were unconscious in many ways. They were simply based upon the wounded child making the choices. You created relationships surrounding that. Then on the pathway from those relationships you created, you learned and grew based upon your wounding and your trauma.

For example, making a choice based upon the conditioning of mom and dad. The wounded child making the choice. In many ways looking outside of yourself for the dad or mom figure. Perhaps the mom and dad you never had. Now as you have continued the inner journey you can make choices based upon the adult. Those are conscious choices. They are choices based upon where you are resonating and vibrating now. In many ways your month of May is where you are graduating into a new level of resonance and vibration based upon the loving, honoring and valuing of the self and the uniqueness of self. Moving more into an individuated adult making conscious choices through discernment as opposed to the wounded child making choices based upon their wounding and the child-like needs.

What We mean by child-like needs, is the need to be taken care of. It is important to understand the wounded child makes decisions based upon life or death. The wounded child, the six, seven or eight year old, looks to mom and dad for their survival. In many ways you have made choices in the past based upon survival. Upholding the seven, eight or nine year old who has made those choices for you based upon survival consciousness. In many ways many of the choices you made were based in survival consciousness.

As you now open into your month of May you move into the fruition of the new self. Which is the self at a higher vibrational level of resonance. The self based upon the adult making choices through discernment. On a conscious level in relationships where there is a true balance of giving and receiving, not give and take. Meaning, I give to you because I am expecting something from you and then I can take from you. You are no longer living a life of attachment, known as free will. I am giving to you based upon the abundance in the depth and breadth of my heart space. There is no attachment in my giving. There is no expectation because that is the wounded child. I am giving to you and expect you to love me in return. I am giving to you so you can give me this. Many live a life fraught with attachment. As you move into the depth and breadth of your heart space into the well of abundance in the you-ness of you, the unity of you within yourself, you no longer need to attach yourself to anything outside of you. Much less the low, dense vibrational aspects of the third dimensional realm. And move into the uniqueness and oneness and unity of you within yourself. Where you are now taking care of your own needs. You know how as the adult, to express your needs with love but you now know how to take care of your own needs.

You are no longer meandering your way through life aimlessly as the wounded child looking for mom and dad or how that translates into relationships outside of you for your needs to be met. Or allowing them to take care of your needs. And in many ways thinking that they know what your needs are. You only know what your needs are as the adult. These are all the new parameters that you are setting up for yourself as you move into adulthood. You are releasing blaming and shaming those outside of you for your plight in life. The wounded child knows no responsibility.

It is now time for each and every one of you as you are moving through the shadow period in the third dimensional realm to begin to take responsibility for yourself. Begin to take responsibility for where you are in your life. Looking in many ways at how you have done that. Looking at how you can expand your level of responsibility. When you expand your level of responsibility you can now form relationships with those who are doing the same. This is just another tool you can give yourself. How am I taking responsibility for myself? Thus, when I move into relationship with others, are they taking responsibility for themselves? Another aspect for the criteria you have as you are discerning new relationships with wonderful and most glorious souls. Moving into adulthood to create the new soul family. Whatever that is for you. It could be one, two or twenty-two wonderful and most glorious souls who you have in your soul family at various levels.

As you move into these relationships you begin as the adult, to define the relationship you are having. Then in tandem together define the relationship. Thus, you are living an authentic and transparent life. Authentically and transparently moving within the creation of the relationship, speaking your truth, stating your needs, communicating with love with another wonderful and most glorious soul. This is where you are moving to a new level of resonance and vibration to do this with others. In many ways living the Christ Consciousness.

So Dear Ones, as you move into your month of May it is a blossoming period into the new self, into a greater sense of self. Into a greater loving, honoring and valuing you. A greater sense of you as the unique individual. Shining you out onto the world through the radiant energetic white light. In many ways onto the shadow. Thus, moving yourself energetically above those low, dense vibrational aspects of the third dimensional realm. Where you are simply inhabiting and observing what is transpiring. Allowing what is transpiring. And if it does affect you, move within, have your feelings about it, yet release your attachments to it and projecting upon it.

It is moving into a new consciousness. As you move through your month of May and into your second half of your year of 2025 it will be the age of a new consciousness.

The energetic force surrounding your earthly plain that came into your earthly plain in 2024 is still working within the parameters of the energetic aspects of the third dimensional realm. As you move into your month of June you will be allowing to usher yourself into a new age of consciousness. The question for each and every one of you is, are you ready for that?